Extensive Ocean Beach Paving

Employees of the Griffith company began the task of excavating and grading of Long Branch avenue this week preparatory to the paving, curbing and sidewalk of that thoroughfare in accordance with original plans, on which work had been temporarily held up for several weeks. It is understood the improvement will be now rapidly rushed to completion. Announcement is also made that City Manager Lockwood is preparing plans and specifications to be submitted to the council within the next fortnight for the paving and improvement of numerous streets in Ocean Beach. Among the streets to be paved are Cape May avenue and Saratoga avenue. The present paving on Brighton avenue will be extended from Guizott street to the top of the hill; Newport avenue paving will be extended from DeFoe street to the hilltop, and two blocks that still remain unpaved on Santa Monica avenue will be improved.

Plans and specifications for over $500,000 worth of public improvements have been signed by City Manager Fred Lockwood, and filed with the city council preparatory for passage of resolution of intentions. The biggest job calls for an expenditure of over $225,000 for installation of paving, sewers, water mains, sidewalks in Sifton Estates, Point Loma.

The following streets are included: Narragansett, Chatsworth, Tenyson, Centraloma drive, Arlington drive, Warrington street, Ridge road, La Cresta drive, Bernice drive, Redondo street, Wells street and a portion of Poe street.

Fine New Parsonage For Catholic Church

BEAUTIFUL BUILDING
OF SPANISH ARCHITECTURE
UNDER CONSTRUCTION

A permit was issued this week to the Sacred Heart church of Ocean Beach for the building of a fine parsonage on the church property at DeFoe street and Saratoga avenue. The new structure will cost $6500 and will be of the Spanish type of architecture. It will be two stories in height and will contain eight rooms, suitable for the residence of the pastor and the necessary offices of the church. The building will be solidly constructed with stucco finish, and there will be a garage at the rear. The contract is in the hands of the F. E. Young company and it is promised that the building will be ready for occupancy quite soon. Rev. P. C. Santy, pastor of the Sacred Heart church, and to whose energy and enthusiasm the new parsonage is largely due, states that the members of the church plan to build on the corner some day a magnificent edifice adjoining and in conformity with the building now under construction. The present church structure would be placed on the alley side of the property and used as an assembly hall.

M. B. Rink Owner Gets Jolly Surprise

EDWARD A. KICKHAM

HAPPILY REMEMBERED ON BIRTHDAY ANNIVERSARY

The forty-first anniversary of his natal day, Wednesday, August 17, will be long remembered by Edward A. Kickham, the widely known and very popular proprietor and manager of the Mission Beach Roller Rink. Besides receiving congratulations from hosts of friends he was the recipient of many useful and valuable birthday presents. Among the numerous tokens from friends and relatives was a beautiful Elk pin from his fellow members of the Mission Beach Amusement Men's association; a handsome necktie from the boys employed at the skating rink, while Chas. I. Putts gave him a magnificent leather purse and pocket-book folder, richly embossed in gold letters and with a fine Elk's head emblem. The grand climax of the celebration came with an exceptionally happy surprise party during the evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kickham in Mission Beach, where the popular "Ed" acted as a most jovial host to the following visitors until the wee small hours: Mr. and Mrs. Petete, Mrs. Petie, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Edgar, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Blakesley, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Beaman, Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Mock, Mrs. M. Gibbons, Miss Ruth Yaeger, Mr. Chas. I. Putts, Mr. and Mrs. Bishop, Mr. Thos. De Hart and Donald O'Rourke. In conjunction with the big bunch of well wishers the staff of "The Beach News" also sincerely extend heartiest congratulations.

"SOME PUMPKINS" AND OTHER VEGETABLES

WORTHY OF PRIZES

Grown right near Ocean Beach, on the "Bridges" Place" in Loma Portal, a wonderful assortment of squash, egg plant, beans and the like has been gathered for shipment to the state fair at Sacramento and later for exhibition at the county fair in San Diego. Some of the specimens were displayed in an auto in front of "The Beach News" office this mid-week and the whole lot was certainly "some pumpkins." One bean product looked like a bass horn and weighed 24 lbs.; a beautifully colored egg plant tipped the scales at 3 lbs.; a banana squash weighed nearly a quarter of a hundred pounds, and there were other samples of similar weight. The head gardener for Mr. A. S. Bridges is Jacob Albright, and he was assisted by Peter Rasmussen in growing the splendid vegetable exhibit.

STRAND THEATRE

Saturday, Tim McCoy in Peter B. Kyne's "War Paint." Romance rides again in this immensely stirring picture of love, adventure and Indian warfare in the old west. Feats of daring, amazing horsemanship, stirring fights, plots and counter-plots, hairbreadth escapes, charming love story—they're all here. You will forget yourself at its thousand thrilling moments. The news weekly and "Say It With Flowers," comedy.

Sunday and Monday, Pola Negri in "Barbed Wire," a tremendous story of wartime dealing with a unique theme, the backwash of the battlefields as seen in the prison camp where there is no roar of guns, but where suppressed hatred and bitter suffering are more intense than at the front. An amazing story of a violently patriotic French girl and a man who represents all she hates, a German prisoner. Fables, "Topics of the Day" and "Long Fliv the King," comedy.

Tuesday and Wednesday, Marion Davies in "Tillie the Toiler." You all know Tillie the comic strip cutie who has won the heart of millions. Lovely Marion Davies makes her greatest comedy hit in this mixture of hilarity and romance. She was beautiful but dumb, but when it came to the ways of men she knew a library-ful. The News weekly and "Buster Brown Handicap" comedy.

Thursday and Friday, Jack Mulhall in "See You In Jail." He was put in jail without a cent and came out of it with a million dollars and a sweetheart. He found a gold mine on a rock pile. After he showed them the way to a million dollars the jail alumni sang a new "Prisoner's Song." More laughs than a prison has bars. More thrills than a jailor has keys. Another Collegian Junior feature, "The Last Lap" and "Beauty a la Mode," a comedy.

Auto Mystery

On Sea-Shore

FEMININE HANDS

SAID TO HAVE SHOVED

CAR OVER CLIFFS

Quite a flurry was caused throughout the beach section last Thursday morning when it was discovered that an automobile had gone over the high cliffs on the previous night at Sunset Cliffs and was found in a greatly battered condition over 100 feet below on the seashore. Investigation by the police revealed that the car, practically a brand-new Chrysler roadster, was owned by Homer C. Fletcher, who resides on Forty-sixth street, San Diego. He told the police that he had loaned the car to a friend on Wednesday evening and was mystified concerning its plunge into the Pacific ocean. From various sources, the police have evolved the theory that the car was driven to the edge of the cliffs by feminine hands and afterwards pushed over the brink in order to demolish it. The fire department and voluntary boatmen assisted the police in endeavoring to solve the mystery. No trace of a drowned or injured person could be found, but the car was badly wrecked. One theory is that the car was stolen and afterwards driven to the cliffs and demolished. Insurance men and the police are investigating several clues that seem to show malicious mischief.

The Name in the Mirror

By RUBY DOUGLAS

DORIS GRAHAM had returned to spend the summer at the quiet, cliff-built summer resort where she had been so carefree and happy five years before.

"But isn't it a stupid place to live in for three months?" asked her chum in the office.

"It wouldn't suit you," admitted Doris.

"And that dreadful trip every day," lamented the other girl.

Doris was not to be discouraged. She wanted to get away from the city, wanted to sleep in the country, wake up in the country, have her Sundays and Saturday afternoons in the open.

And so she had established herself in the plain, old country boarding house that she had lived in when her mother was with her and life looked rosy and merry. Now, she was tired, a trifle discouraged at the lack of variety in her life. There was a vacancy she could not quite analyze but she ascribed it to the fact that she could not get accustomed to living without her dear mother.

On her first free Saturday afternoon, she wandered about the old village streets.

"I'll just go down to the post office to wait for the distribution of the late mail," she said to herself, as she neared the little group of shops of which one was the post office.

This had been one of the merriest of meeting places for all the young folks of the summer resort. There, in its homely prosaic enough atmosphere, many a budding romance had first colored into life.

It was as she was entering the post office five years ago that she had first seen Archie Olmstead. The thought now quickened her breath, sent that forlorn hurt straight to her heart.

What had become of him? Why had she never heard from him?

How many times she had asked herself that question only to find herself unanswered.

She found a letter for her from the girl in the office who, secretly, would have enjoyed being with Doris, but who, hesitated to invite herself.

Doris, thrilled at receiving a letter from the hands of the same postmaster who had stood behind the window thumbing the letters five years before, stood beside the scratched and disfigured wall to read it.

As some one pushed against her, she moved. She bumped her head, ever so slightly, against the corner of the glass-faced wall cabinet that held unclaimed letters.

For a moment she stared at the envelopes posted inside. Suddenly, she started. There was her own name—Doris Graham.

Hastily, she sought the postmaster and told him that there was a letter in the case that was addressed to her. Together, they got it and Doris fearing, somehow, to read it in the midst of so many eyes as were upon her, put it in her bag.

When she was alone she opened the envelope. It was a letter from Archie. In it, he told her this was the third one he had written and if he received no answer this time he would decide that she had amused herself for a summer by making him fall in love with her.

If she wrote one letter over that week-end, to Archie, she wrote a dozen. None suited her. She could not seem to find words in which to tell him all that had been in her thoughts of him, since they had met. She wondered where he was. Could this address be the right one?

On Monday, at the office, she tried again, this time on her typewriter. It was a stupid letter. She destroyed it.

It was still light when she arrived in the country these June nights and she decided that she would be able to pen a short note to Archie if she used the post office pen and ink on the old shelf desk where they had written each other so many tender notes in other days. With a piece of paper in her bag, she went to the village and wrote to Archie. As she stood looking at the much-used blotter on the shelf, her handbag open with its mirrored back, a familiar scrawl was reflected in it.

She held the mirror over the blotted name. Yes—it was his name in his handwriting. Her heart thumped madly. He must be here—in this very town—now. The name had been written that day.

Posting the letter she had written, she hurried back to the boarding house.

When the motherly old landlady came forward, she saw that they had met on the walk leading through the arch of maples. She had remembered their early romance. She was gratified at its renewal.

It took the whole evening to explain the strange tricks Fate had played them during the years of their separation. But the faith of each of them was unshaken and Doris found herself later comparing the great happiness of her present summer with the shallow, frivolous gaiety of that holiday five years ago.

"And I knew all the time," Doris heard from her chum at the office, "that there must be some good reason for your craving for that stupid summer resort—some other reason than the country air."

SUMMER DISHES

As the summer season is with us we need to find foods that are appropriate to the season and serve our meals with as little waste energy as possible. Juicy fruits, leafy vegetables, cooling dishes and ices of various kinds are always welcome during the warm days.

Veal Croquettes.—Put a pint of veal through a salt and a generous sprinkling of pepper grinder, add a tablespoonful of rika, a tablespoonful of lemon juice. Melt three tablespoonfuls of butter, add two tablespoonfuls of finely minced onion, three tablespoonfuls of flour and three-fourths of a cupful of veal stock or milk. Cook together five minutes, add two well-beaten eggs, stir until well mixed; mix with the veal. Shape, allowing a tablespoonful of the mixture for each croquette. Dip in egg and crumbs and fry in deep fat. Serve with a white or a tomato sauce.

Lemon Sherbet.—Take the juice of three lemons, two cupfuls of sugar and one quart of milk. Mix and freeze as usual.

Cherry Pudding.—Mix together the following ingredients: One and one-third cupfuls of sugar, two tablespoonfuls of butter, one cupful of milk, two cupfuls of flour sifted with two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, the yolk of an egg and the white beaten stiff and folded in. Pour this batter over a quart of pitted cherries and steam one hour. To make the sauce add sugar to the juice of the cherries, with a tablespoonful each of butter and flour and cook well together. A bit of nutmeg may be added.

Vegetable Dish.—Cook together young onions, new carrots and green peas in as little water as possible, adding small cubes of fried salt pork, a half cupful to a pint of vegetables. When the vegetables are cooked add seasoning with enough milk to serve as a sauce with the vegetables.

Picnic Lunches.

During the picnic season we are looking for foods easy to carry and prepare for serving, which will be otherwise popular.

When one is planning for a trip of several days and wishes to take food for the entire trip, nut bread will be found a good one, as it keeps moist for several days.

Nut Bread.—Take one cupful of sugar, one egg, three-fourths cupful of walnuts, two and one-fourth cupfuls of flour, three teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one-half teaspoonful of salt. Mix the dry ingredients, beat the egg, add one cupful of milk, mix and beat well and add the nuts. Let stand twenty minutes before putting into the oven. Bake forty-five minutes in a moderate oven.

For a doughnut that keeps moist the following will be a good one to use:

Potato Doughnuts.—Cream three tablespoonfuls of butter, add three-fourths of a cupful of sugar, the yolks of three eggs and one white, one cupful of freshly mashed potato, one-fourth of a cupful of milk, two and one-half cupfuls of flour, three teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one-half teaspoonful of salt and flavor with grated nutmeg. Cream the butter, add the sugar, then the eggs, stir in the potato which has been lightened with the egg white, beaten stiff, add milk and the flour gradually. Chill on ice before rolling out and less flour will be needed. The less flour used the more moist will keep the doughnuts.

Lunch Cake.—Take one-third of a cupful of softened butter, add one and one-third cupfuls of brown sugar, two beaten eggs, one-half cupful of milk, three teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one-half teaspoonful of cinnamon, one-half cupful of raisins and one and three-fourths cupfuls of flour. Put all together and beat three minutes. Bake forty minutes in a moderate oven.

Beef Fricadelles.—Take two cupfuls of cold cooked beef minced fine, season with salt, pepper, sage and thyme, lemon juice and grated rind and a tablespoonful of grated onion. Add one-half cupful of bread crumbs or cold cooked rice and one egg well beaten. Add water if needed, form into flat cakes and fry in hot butter.

Frizzled Beef With Eggs.—Cut into strips a few slices of dried beef, fry in a little butter and two or three eggs and a few tablespoonfuls of milk; stir until cooked and serve with buttered toast for breakfast. Bacon served in the same way is especially good.

SLEEVELESS FROCK IN FAVOR; MILLINERY FOR MIDSUMMER

TO BE sleeved or to be sleeveless, "that is the question," and at present the sleeveless have totaled a majority. It is not all a matter of taste and preference either, for with the thermometer at top notch, the sleeveless dress just has to be, in order to insure comfort.

When it comes to playing favorite with the tennis enthusiast the sleeveless "gains the day." The picture shows a costume typical of the prevailing sports-frock mode. It is of handsome white washable Chinese silk damask—stylish and correct in every detail to its very hemline.

The fact that it is all white with just a touch of bright red in the belt is significant—and oh, yes! almost forgot to state that the white kid shoes the now-so-fashionable broad-of-brim hat. Furthermore, the advent of these wide brims, some of which are enormous, has brought straw into prominence. It is very certain that women of fashion are eagerly turning to these large milans, ballbuntis and erin transparencies, as a relief from the little felts and fabric hats which have for so long a time held sway in the realm of millinery.

As to large black milan shapes, they are too numerous to count, but aside from these there is no lack of diversification in the picturesque huge-brim chapeaux which are playing so conspicuous a part in fashion's midsummer program.

Two views of an entrancing transparent hair hat are given at the top are red-heeled. The vogue for enlivening white with red is confirmed throughout sports modes.

One way of supplying the color note to the otherwise all-white costume is to wear a very gay jacket over a sleeveless white crepe or white satin dress. Sometimes the coat is white, too, but lavishly embroidered in flashy reds and blues and greens. A coat of alluring charm comes styled of white leather, contrasted by a bright red lining.

A white flannel jacket suit with a red velvet belt, a lapel red velvet flower, and red bone buttons used for

of this picture. Not only is the use of ribbon pronounced, but a few exclusive French shapes hint at a return to favor of the upturned brim.

The vogue of navy blue extends to midday's hat this season, and many of the handsomest wide brim numbers are in this color, thus complementing the frock with which they are worn. Smartly attired women are wearing navy blue milans such as the one pictured to the left in this group. Navy blue polka dot ribbon effectively bands the crown, terminating in a conventional bow. There is also a semi-facing of the polka dot. Very fastening interprets the white-with-a-touch-of-color mode to the point of fascination.

There is also a strong liking expressed for yellow with white. Yellow sweaters with white plaited skirts frequent the style stage. Often a white crepe de chine dress boasts a narrow hemline border with cuffs, collar and belt of yellow.

Sports coats which carry color, and which are intended to accompany the all-white dress include stunning novelties such as those of quilted green shantung, a pin-tucked lavender flannel, also coolie coats galore. Extreme simplicity distinguishes likely she who is so fortunate as to acquire the original of this modish chapeau, will buy navy kidskin shoes and handbag to complete the color ensemble, according to latest style dictates.

The final hat in this group is a quality-kind black ballbunt. It has aristocracy written into its every detail. Notice the soft satin ribbon loops emerging from the side-back crown line. Many French milliners are working with broad satin ribbons, introducing them on their latest models.

New CALIFORNIA THEATRE

Clara Bow, the flaming flapper of the films, was handed another story that fits her with the fidelity of her fashions when B. P. Schulberg, head of the Paramount studios, announced that Miss Bow's next picture would be "Hula" a vivid, daring romance set against the background of the Hawaiian Isles.

"Hula" arriving at the New California theatre tomorrow, is a tropical story that is unusual in more ways than one. For one thing, the heroine is not a little native girl in a grass skirt who discovers that she is really white in time to marry the handsome son of the plantation owner in the sixth reel.

How she overcomes the insidious effect to find regeneration and wholesomeness in love is told in stark, stirring fashion. Production on Miss Bow's new picture was in charge of Victor Fleming. Clive Brook is featured. Arlett Marshall and Arnold
Kent head the supporting cast.

Fanchon and Marco present their "Idea" Sea Nymphs, at the New California theatre in conjunction with "Hula" starting tomorrow, featuring an elaborate under-sea ballet and scores of merry mermaids. The production is said to be one of the most spectacular yet staged here and will inaugurate novel ideas in scenic splendor. Star fish, balloon fish, dog fish, cat fish will be seen.

Heading the cast will be Armanda Chirof, distinguished coloratura of Mexico, and Jose Mercado, tenor, Fanchon and Marco's celebrated Sun-kist Beauties, Wallace and Sanna, adagio team and Douglas Alene, who does a sensational-crocodile walk.
Milt Franklyn and his band, in specially arranged musical numbers and Mrs. Peggy Leonard, organist, playing a solo number, complete the excellent bill scheduled for the week.

BALBOA THEATRE

"For the Love of Mike," which opens an engagement of three days at the Balboa theatre today, is a story to laugh at, and cry too, with Ben Lyon, George Sidney, Ford Sterling and Hugh Cameron in the leading male roles and Claudette Colbert, the leading lady.

Herman Schultz, delicatessen dealer, Abie Cohen, tailor, and Tim O' Malley, street cleaner, are living in separate rooms on the same landing of a tenement house in "Hell's Kitchen", when a baby boy is abandoned on the landing. Together they adopt him.

Sacrificing and skimping at every turn, they rear the child as fondly as if he were their own and when he has finished high school gleefully plan a college career for him.

Starting Sunday, "Metropolis," the ultimate in camera craft, will be the major attraction at the Balboa theatre for four days. This so-called

"cinemiracle" has just completed a long engagement at the Rialto theatre in New York, where it was acclaimed by press and public as the most unusual and imaginative photoplay of all time.

Karl Kitchen, one of New York's foremost newspaper writers, said,
"Here is the German film that has everything—including entertainment value. "Metropolis" was produced by UFA. It is being distributed by Paramount. Despite its seemingly impossible (though thoroughly probable) story "Metropolis" presents some of the most remarkable photography ever attempted. Besides it, such wonders of the cinema as "Variety" and "The Last Laugh" are said to pale. New York critics called it the greatest picture of all time when it was shown in that city.

NOVEL EXHIBITS
IN EDUCATIONAL LINE
AT STATE FAIR

Ellis Franklin, a director of the State Board of Agriculture, in charge of the educational department, announces an increased number of exhibits and a wider scope of displays for this division at the state fair in Sacramento, September 3 to 10. It is stated that state fair visitors will see the greatest displays of the kind ever gathered together in the state in the educational building and the women's building this year.

In the art gallery will be pictures from the brushes of celebrated artists. Women's work, such as lace, embroidery and handpaned China will be on display, and the handwork of children from kindergarten through high school will be exhibited.

A New Way to Make Jellies

Without Staining Fingers—Without Long Hours of Boiling—Without Depending Upon Berries or Fruit Being in Season.

One of the most interesting and yet one of the simplest new products in the food field is called minute jelly. It is pure fruit or berry juice already boiled down and concentrated. To this concentrated juice, fruit pectin in the right amount has been added. The pectin is that part of fruit which makes jelly "jell." It is as pure and wholesome as the fruit juice.

To make the jelly take the little bottle of concentrated juice, pour in a sauce pan, add water and sugar according to directions on the bottle and boil a few minutes. Then pour into jelly glasses and when it has become cold you have the most delicious pure fruit jelly ever tasted.

A few bottles kept on hand, selected according to your taste for jellies, and you can make up a few glasses just as you want it. One small bottle makes two glasses of jelly. If you wish to try two bottles send us twenty-five cents and we will give you your choice of grape, mint, pineapple, orange, raspberry, strawberry or blackberry. Or four bottles—all different—for fifty cents. Address Department WU, General Packing Corp., Cranford, New Jersey.—Adv.

Science Seeks Origin of Polynesian Races

The determined search of scientists for the answer to a great historic puzzle—the origin of the Polynesian races—is about to try a new channel. Edward W. Gifford, associate curator at the Museum of Anthropology in the University of California, has been added to the staff of the Bishop Museum, Honolulu, for special race research in the Pacific. He will voyage to the Fiji Islands in a new effort to discover Polynesian traits, or remnants of them. The Bishop Museum has been collecting a vast amount of material dealing with prehistoric days in the Pacific, and has sent a series of scientific expeditions into the South seas and to the Asian coast. A friendly working agreement has been reached with the government of Dutch East Indies for an investigation of early vestiges in the Dutch possessions. A large and well-equipped bureau of ethnology has been established there.

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

By F. A. WALKER

WHO IS YOUR HERO?

A SHORT time ago the police of a great city picked up on the street a destitute boy of fifteen. He was ragged and hungry. When they searched him at the station house the only thing they found in his pockets was a bit of crumpled paper upon which had been written as the title "My Heroes" and underneath were listed these names:

Theodore Roosevelt.
General Pershing.
Jesse James.
Tracy the Bandit.
Captain Kidd.

A strange and interesting list and yet there are comprehensible reasons for the presence of every name that filled this youthful individual's hall of fame.

We begin to choose our heroes very early in life. The story of "Jack and the Beanstalk" has furnished many a boy with his first ideal of bravery.

"Robinson Crusoe"—the characters of James Fenimore Cooper—even the overdrawn adventures of the old "yellow covers" and "The Nickel Library" and Cap Collier's creations thrilled many of us to ambitions which faded away with boyhood.

One thing is certain: No boy ever worshipped a man as a hero unless in his opinion he had done something extraordinary, something that really entitled him to admiration.

If we pick our heroes for the purposes of imitation we should be very careful. Not many men in all history were desirable of imitation in all the details of their lives. Every great man has some weakness. An ideal hero would have to be a composite man, a combination of the great without their faults.

The most popular hero that ever lived was undoubtedly Napoleon. But of him Robert Ingersoll said in one of the greatest of his short addresses that he would rather be the humblest of French peasants than the man at whose command hundreds of thousands had died.

Who is your hero? Why is he your hero?

A FEW SALADS AND SALAD DRESSINGS

FRUITS and vegetables are an absolute essential to health; let us have them in season and served plentifully.

Marshmallow Salad.

Cut two oranges in halves, remove the pulp, carefully leaving the cups. Cut a slice of pineapple into bits, add eight marshmallows cut into quarters, add one-fourth of a cupful of coarsely cut nuts, and one-half cupful of seeded and skinned white grapes; mix with the orange pulp and a little French dressing. Fill the cups, cover with more dressing, using either boiled or mayonnaise. Garnish with strips of canned pimientos. Place half of a grape in the center and bits of chopped parsley between the strips of pepper.

Nut, Fruit and Vegetable Salad.

Take one cupful each of cooked green peas, one cupful of celery; cut in bits one cupful of walnut meats and one cupful of shredded orange. Serve with mayonnaise on lettuce.

New York Salad.

Arrange four slices of pineapple on lettuce leaves. Cut one-half cupful of celery into long, slender strips and mix with one-half cupful of nut meats. Pile in the center of the pineapple and garnish with four sections of orange freed from its membrane. Pass the dressing separately.

Chicken Salad.

Cut chicken into fine bits, using two cupfuls; add one cupful of celery, one cupful of diced cucumber and two tablespoonfuls of chopped capers. Season with salt and pepper and mix with a boiled or mayonnaise dressing in which an equal quantity of whipped cream has been stirred. Serve on lettuce.

Cottage Cheese Salad.

Mix a few tablespoonfuls of good boiled dressing into a cupful or more of seasoned cottage cheese. Serve on lettuce with a bit of dressing on top of each portion.

WHEN I WAS TWENTY-ONE

BY JOSEPH KAYE

At 21—Daniel Chester French Was Embarking on His Career.

ABOUT this age I went to Chicago with a bas-relief of my sister, which I exhibited. It won favorable notice and procured me an order for a similar portrait by a Chicago lady, the first commission I received. It was just a few years after that I began work upon my first public statue, "The Minute Man."

I have always enjoyed my work. When I get interested in a subject I lose all track of time and thoroughly enjoy myself. I am not like my old friend, St. Gaudens, who took things more seriously. He actually fought his work, studying it from every angle, worrying with it, puzzling over it. I have never worked that way and I used to feel guilty—as though I were having too good a time.—Daniel Chester French.

TODAY—Mr. French is one of America's most distinguished sculptors, the creator of "The Minute Man," an historical piece of work that is familiar to every American. At the time Mr. French proposed his plans to the memorial committee in charge of erecting the statue in Concord as a revolutionary memorial, French was totally unknown as an artist and practically self-taught, the only thing in his favor being that he was a native of Concord and that he had asked in financial returns was four hundred dollars for expenses. His design was accepted and Mr. French set to work without even the help of a model.

The artistic ability of the sculptor was first discovered when his step-mother found him carving a turnip into a caricature of a frog dressed in clothes. His career was decided upon then.

Do You Know That:—??—

"OIL on Troubled Waters" or to "Pour Oil on Troubled Waters" is a very old phrase meaning to pacify or to soothe.

We find the phrase mentioned in Bede's Ecclesiastical History which was written in Latin in 735 and later translated in 1565. It appears that St. Aidan had given his blessing to a young priest who was to set out by land, but return by water, to convey a young maiden destined to be the bride of King Oswin. St. Aidan gave the young man a jar of oil to pour on the sea if the waves became stormy. A storm did arise and the young priest poured the oil on the waves and they did actually become calm. Bede says he had the story from "a most creditable man in Holy Orders."—Anna S. Turnquist.

Sport That Requires

Nerve and Quickness

Though you may have never heard of this sport under its proper name, the quintain, you may have seen the apparatus described, especially in connection with stories of medieval and later sports in England.

The quintain is an apparatus used in military sport or as exercise by men on horseback. It is simply an upright post with a crossbar at the top that turns on a pivot. One end of this crossbar is flat; to the other end is attached a bag of sand.

The horseman rides at the post, endeavoring to strike the flat end of the crossbar with a lance and pass on before the bag of sand can swing around and strike him on the back.

To engage in this sport requires more than an ordinary amount of horsemanship, as well as a quick eye and a steady hand.

Railroad Grades

Any railroad grade of 2 per cent or over is uneconomical. Grade revision has progressed in this country until there are few grades of 2 per cent or over. The Denver & Rio Grande has 12 miles of 2.4 per cent grade west-bound from Helper, Utah, to Kyune, Utah, and a 2 per cent grade from Soldier Summit, Utah, to Tucker, Utah, a distance of about fifteen miles.

Old Ironsides' Greatest Victory

"CONSTITUTION" AND "GUERRIERE"

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON

Isaac did so maul and rake her, That the decks of Captain Dacres Were in such a awful pickle As if Death, with scythe and sickle, Had cut his harvest fore and aft. Thus, in thirty minutes, ended Mischief that could not be mended; Mast, and yards, and ship descended All to David Jones' locker— Such a ship, in such a pucker!—Old Song.

DURING the present nationwide campaign to raise funds for the restoration and preservation of the historic frigate "Constitution," it would be singularly appropriate if this patriotic effort were crowned with success by August 19. For that is the 115th anniversary of Old Ironsides' greatest victory, the day when she fought the terrific engagement with the English frigate Guerriere off the coast of Nova Scotia, and "in one-half hour raised the United States to the rank of a first-class power." In all the brilliant record of this wonderful old warship there is no incident more thrilling than the story of her duel with the proud ship which bore

On her sails in letters red, Words of warning, words of dread: "All who meet me have a care! I am England's Guerriere!"

On August 2, 1812, the Constitution, commanded by Capt. Isaac Hull, sailed from Boston in the hope of falling in with some of the British war vessels which were supposed to be lying in wait for American shipping along the Atlantic coast from Nantucket to Halifax. Hull was especially anxious to meet the Guerriere, commanded by Capt. James Richard Dacres, who had sent word to American commanders that his ship was "not the Little Belt" (a reference to the dispute between the two nations over who had been the aggressor in the engagement in which the American ship, President, almost destroyed the British ship, Little Belt, before war had been declared).

After cruising about in northern waters for more than a week, during which time he overhauled several small fry of British shipping, Hull, still seeking big game, finally turned Old Ironsides southward. About two o'clock on the afternoon of August 19 the look-out reported a sail on the horizon. Hull immediately gave chase to the stranger and at half past three discovered that it was a British frigate. Sailing to within a league to the leeward of the enemy, Hull shortened sail, cleared decks for action, hoisted the American flag, beat to quarters and bore down on the enemy to bring her to close combat.

Seeing this action the enemy ship also prepared for action and when the Englishman had hoisted three ensigns Hull saw to his joy that his adversary was the one ship he had been seeking, the Guerriere. Captain Dacres opened the engagement with a broadside of grapeshot, filled away and sent in another broadside on the other tack. On account of the distance which separated the adversaries, however, neither broadside took effect. For the next hour the two vessels maneuvered much in the manner of two boxers, each trying to get in a position to rake the other with its gunfire and at the same time avoid being raked. Finally the Guerriere began to draw off with the Constitution in close pursuit, trying to bring the fight to close quarters. At last about six o'clock in the evening the Englishman took a position that indicated he was willing to engage in a yard-arm to yard-arm fight and Hull closed in until the bows of the Constitution doubled the quarter of the Guerriere.

From the moment that the American ship had begun to close in on the enemy the fire of the English guns had begun to strike Old Ironsides. Lieutenant Morris, Hull's second in command, became impatient and, going to his commander, asked permission to open fire. "Not yet," was Hull's quiet response. Nearer and nearer the two warships drew together and again Morris repeated his request only to receive the same quiet "Not yet."

Gentle Hint

Slowly he drew away from her. His arms dropped to his side. Suddenly his hands fixed themselves into a death clutch on the divan. She looked at him in surprise. Such a sudden change. He shook all over (the divan). His eyes bulged. His breath came in gasps. His scalp moved as though trying to crawl under his collar. His color faded and then came back. He shuddered. Slowly he relaxed, a peace-

ISAAC HULL

JAMES RICHARD DACRES

At last as the bows of the American ship drew alongside the enemy, Hull shouted "Now, boys, pour it into them!" Instantly Old Ironsides' forward guns, which had been double-shotted with grape and roundshot, poured forth a terrific volley which swept the Guerriere and bathed her decks in the blood of her men.

But the men of the Guerriere had not been idle. The two ships were now within half a pistol shot of each other and the Englishman's guns were pounding the American vessel. But for every blow that he dealt he received two in return. Within fifteen minutes the Guerriere's mizzen-mast was shot away, her main yard was in slings and her hull, spars, sails and rigging were torn to pieces by the hail of metal from the Constitution. The Britisher brought up in the wind as the mizzen-mast gave way and the Constitution passed slowly ahead, poured in a tremendous fire, luffed short around the bows of the enemy to prevent being raked, but fell foul of the Guerriere, her bowsprit running into the larboard quarter of the enemy ship. At this moment the cabin of the Constitution was set on fire by the forward guns of the Englishman but the flames were put out quickly.

As the two vessels lay locked for a moment, each side attempted to board the other. Fierce volleys of musketry amid the roar of the big guns added to the horror of the scene. The Americans who were attempting to board the enemy were led by Lieutenant Morris, Master Alwyn and Lieutenant Bush of the Marines. Morris and Alwyn were severely wounded and Bush was shot down. Before the Americans could accomplish their purpose, the sails of the Constitution were filled and she shot ahead and clear of the enemy ship. As she did so the Guerriere's fore-mast went down, carrying with it the main-mast, leaving that proud ship a shattered wreck rolling in the trough of the sea.

Hull hauled off his vessel a short distance away, made hasty repairs on the mizzen of his ship and at sunset bore down to a position which would enable him to rake the crippled Guerriere. But the Englishman was through. A jack that had been kept flying on the stump of the mizzen-mast was lowered as a signal of surrender. Hull sent Lieut. George C. Read to board the prize. As Read stepped on deck and asked for the commander, Dacres appeared. "Commodore Hull's compliments and he wishes to know if you have struck your flag?" said Read. Dacres, calmly looking over the wreckage that surrounded him, replied dryly, "Well, I don't know; our mizzen-mast is gone, our mainmast is gone, and, upon the whole, you may say we have struck our flag." Read then offered the services of a surgeon or a surgeon's mate. "Well, I should suppose you had on board your own ship business enough for all your medical officers," said Dacres. "Oh, no," replied Read. "We have only seven wounded, and they were dressed half an hour ago."

One casualty which the Constitution had suffered but which Read did not mention was one illustrative of ful expression on his face. He was silent for a moment. Then he arose, once more a man. She looked at him wondering, for she had never seen a man act thus before. "At last," he cried. "I have succeeded in yawning with my mouth closed."

College "Wranglers"

Wrangler, literally a disputant in the colleges of Cambridge university, England, is a term now applied to a student who attains a place in the those ludicrous incidents which so often accompany historic events. In those days the uniform of American naval commanders was an affair of much gold lace and buttons as to the coat, ruffled shirts and tight knee breeches. At the opening of the engagement Hull, after twice saying "Not yet," to Morris's request for permission to open fire, had finally given the word and as he did so he twice bent forward almost to the deck. When the smoke of that first thunderous volley cleared away it was discovered that Hull's energetic movements had split his tight breeches from waistband to the knee! But there was no time to change then and in this unheroic costume he continued to direct his men throughout the battle.

The Constitution kept near her prize all night. At dawn the officer in charge of the Guerriere reported that she was filling with water and in danger of sinking. So Hull sent his boats to bring off the prisoners and the prize crew and by three o'clock in the afternoon the ship was deserted. She was too much damaged to be saved, so she was set on fire and fifteen minutes later an explosion that scattered blazing brands far and wide over the waters marked the end of "England's Guerriere."

Hull arrived in Boston on August 30 and reported his victory to the secretary of war. When the news spread it was received everywhere with the wildest demonstrations of joy, for it meant that England's reign as "the mistress of the seas" was beginning to wane. Hull was the hero of the hour, especially since his victory dispelled the gloom that had been caused by the surrender of his uncle, General Hull, at Detroit a short time before. The commander and his men were feasted at a great celebration in Faneuil hall. Hull was voted a gold medal by congress and $50,000 in prize money was distributed among his men. Other cities honored him and the name of Isaac Hull has come down in American naval history along with that of John Paul Jones as one of our greatest naval heroes. Thereafter the Constitution was known as "Old Ironsides," and although she won other victories none was more brilliant than this one.

Weakened on the Way

The vicar considered himself a very good preacher, and was always ready to hear people's opinions of his sermons.

Meeting an old parishioner, he asked:

"Well, Mr. Snooks, and how did you like my sermon yesterday?" "Ye see, parson," was the reply, "I haven't a fair chance with them sermons of yours. I'm an old man now, and by the time I manage to get to the church all the front seats are taken and I have to sit at the back. There's old Mrs. Smith an' Mrs. O'Callagher's daughters an' Bert Snow an' all the rest of 'em sittin' in front o' me wid their mouths open a-swallowin' all the best parts of your sermon, an' what gets down to me is purty poor stuff, parson, purty poor stuff."—London Tit-Bits.

Father's Position

A father is a member of the male species who is supposed to spend one-half his time doing the things his family wants him and the other half answering their complaints because he did it.—Baltimore Sun.

THE MUD TURTLES

Old Billy Bullfrog always has a lot of fun with the mud turtles, but the other day when he gave a swimming party he had more fun than ever before.

They came, bringing with them their chairs of mud—and some of the very grand ones were carried on sofas made of mud.

You know the mud turtles are very lazy, and they enjoy sleeping about as much as anything.

Still, none of them would miss one of Billy Bullfrog's swimming parties—so they all came, even if some were napping when they arrived.

Just then the mud turtles felt their mud chairs being pulled from under them—and the mud turtles who were lying on sofas felt themselves suddenly without anything to lie on—and they all had to swim around for a change.

They wondered and wondered what could have taken away their resting places, when they heard a chorus of bullfrogs say:

"Croak, croak, dr-r-r-r-r-u-m, get up and swim. It's not polite to sleep at a party."

Then the mud turtles blinked and looked about them, and there they saw on the lily pads in the stream, the bullfrogs.

"We've invented a game for the swimming party, as, of course, we're all a bit tired of races."

The mud turtles sighed and looked at their mud sofas and chairs disappearing in the stream, and smiled as only mud turtles can smile!

But the bullfrogs saw their smiles, and croaked and laughed and gurgled some more.

"But we're going to have something more exciting than swimming races."

"We're going to sit on our lily pads, and you're to swim under us and knock us off into the stream, and then, just as we find you are nice and comfortable, we'll knock you off."

But after they had played the new game for a little while the mud turtles would fall off their mud sofas and get on the lily pads instead.

And they didn't bother to chase the bullfrogs at all.

Old Billy Bullfrog had thought that would happen, and they had all wondered why he hadn't shown up before.

When, all of a sudden, what should the mud turtles see but a big thing that looked like a fat whale swimming around, pulling at their feet.

Then how they did swim and scamper, and the bullfrogs laughed and laughed.

Pretty soon the mud turtles noticed that the whale didn't chase any of the bullfrogs and that the bullfrogs weren't hurrying.

"It's another trick," one of them said.

Then Old Billy Bullfrog, who was dressed up as the whale with a cloak of gray bark and weeds, laughed and said:

"Well, there's no keeping you awake—so we'll sing lullabies," and the noise from the stream nearby the other night really meant that the bullfrogs were croaking what they called lullabies and sleepy songs.

Puzzle Small Boys

"Children are inclined to take things very literally," remarked Anne Wheeler, the settlement worker. "Take for instance the case of little Billy. His father had brought home a big box of candy but the child had been told by his mother that he must never eat candy without her permission."

"When a guest tried to make the little fellow take some, he said, 'Me must ask my muddle,' and started off for where she was, over half a mile away."

"But," said the guest, "why not ask your father? He's right out here on the porch."

To which Billy replied with indignation:

"Don't you know me fiddle isn't me muddle?"

The New Science

Parker Moon was discussing the enormous campaign expenditures of certain candidates.

"These chaps," he said, "don't seem to understand political economy."

Then he laughed and went on:

"A boy said to his father:

"Pop, what's political economy, anyhow?"

"Political economy?" said the father. "Why, any fool ought to know that political economy is the science of not buying any more votes nor paying no higher for them than what you actually need."—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

NATIONAL EFFORT

FOR RIGHTFUL HERITAGE

OF FUTURE CITIZENS

"We shall see a secretary of education in the President's cabinet with a major division of the department devoted to educational research," states Miss Cornelia S. Adair, recently elected president of the National Education Association. She estimated that the membership in the national association would mount to 200,000 or 300,000. It will be the nation's effort, she added, to establish in the coming generations right standards of citizenship and appreciation of the finer things of the past ages as their rightful heritage. It will be America's contribution to the progress of civilization.

REFRESHING SUMMER

DRINKS

Cool fruit punches are always welcome in warm weather. Whether at luncheon, dinner, afternoon tea, or after a walk, or a game of golf or tennis. A most satisfying beverage is made by combining pineapple juice with any of the good table waters, especially ginger ale, or with freshly brewed tea, or with the juices of other fruits.

For a morning drink with pep in it, try pineapple morning glory. Mix two-thirds cup of juice from canned Hawaiian pineapple, one tablespoon of honey, a pinch of salt, and lemon juice to taste (one or two tablespoons). Juice of one orange may be used also, if desired.

An Ancient Symbol of Hospitality

A PICTURESQUE old rectory in Rhode Island was recently being restored. Covered with vines, its colors mellowed by age, so the rectory had stood for over one hundred years. The north doorway on this old home was formerly the doorway of the French Admiral de Ternay, and is one of the famous carved doorways of New England. When the dust of years was brushed from the ancient carvings and the central ornament disclosed, it proved to be a pineapple.

Only one other similar doorway is still in existence—that on the old State House on Washington Square. Commenting upon his architectural design a writer of "Parish Tidbits" says:

"The pineapple in the midst is an ancient symbol of hospitality, and no symbol of hospitality must be allowed to decay over the doorway of a priest, whose doors must always be open to the sheep of the flock. May the old pineapple be a true symbol of a real welcome for many years to come!"

Today, the pineapple on the table symbolizes hospitality. Much of the beauty of old doorways has been lost, but the spirit of hospitality is still fostered, and the hostess who serves pineapple extends to the guest within the door, an ancient warmth of greeting.

The newest aid to the hostess who serves pineapple are Hawaiian pineapple "tid-bits". They are made from the same sun-kissed Hawaiian pineapple as the sliced or crushed product, and they lend themselves to dishes in which smaller pieces of pineapple are preferable to larger pieces.

Here are some delightful ways of serving pineapple tid-bits: Pineapple Waldorf Salad—Pare,

FIRE HAZARD

Mr. Kirk Smith,
Editor, "The Beach News,"

Sir—On the corner of Voltaire and Cable streets at Ocean Beach is the old D. C. Collier office made over into a store and dwelling, which is now vacant; there is also a garage.

For the last year the newsies have opened their papers in the yard behind these buildings and left the wrappers and extra papers strewn around close to said buildings until there is a lot of it, and all that is now needed to destroy these buildings and the beautiful palms and other trees, is a cigaret, of which there is more than enough.

This has been reported repeatedly to the newspaper offices, but so far nothing has been done. If these buildings are burned, will the newspaper companies be responsible? D. C. CROSBY.
